Airman Reaches . Pole

Makes Flight From Spitzbergen and Back in 14 Hours

8 OTHER AIRMEN OUT FOR HONORS

Fokker Exploration Plane Used in Hazardous Adventure

LONDON, May 10.—For the second time in recorded history the American flag was unfurled at the North Pole Sunday, when Lieutenant Commander Richard E. Byrd, of the United States Navy, flew from Spitzbergen to the peak of the world and returned safely to his base in 14 hours.

In making this trip Commander Byrd completed the first air conquest of the North Pole, and was an international hero in which eight other airmen were working honorees.

Fourteen hours in air Byrd, flying a Fokker exploration plane, left King's Bay, Spitzbergen, at 11:56 o'clock Sunday morning, returning at 4:20 p. m. after a flight of 14 hours.

On his return he was positively that he had reached the pole.

Other 14-hour aerial conquests of the Arctic region are being planned today by Commander Richard Byrd, who has created history by making a "long flight" from King's Bay, Spitzbergen, to the North Pole and return, according to continued on page thirteen.

Fears Overthrow of Democracy by Fascism or Communism

Who is reported to be preparing to intervene to bring about peace between the striking British Trade Unionists and the government.

LONDON, May 10.—The strike situation is approaching. After a week of twisting the lion's tail the strike leaders are about to feel the weight of the lion's claws. The second week of the strike finds the government prepared to take drastic action. The great question is: "How will the strikers take it?"

These strikers were followed by the apprehension of Marjorie Pollitt, wife of Harry Pollitt, Communist leader now serving a sentence for his activities. She was charged with possession of documents likely to cause dissatisfaction among civilians and after the documents had been seized was released on $500 bail. Other warrants are out.

"Outside Capital"

This year will see an immense sum of money come into the Edmonton territory from outside territory— from Europe and the East and South—all interested in the great new development of our natural resources. Every citizen and resident should make himself a "Consultant of One" to intervene in a financial way, the nature of which will be to "look us over". We have much to sell and it is all worth—whether it is our real estate in town and country, all destined to greatly increase in value, or our oil.

Let these peppy helpers—the "Small Ads"—do their share

Turning Off the Light.

A correspondent objects to the Bulletin's comment on the suppression of the newspaper in Britain, claiming that the Labor leaders were justified in calling out the printers because the papers would not present the issues and incidents of the strike fairly. On the same ground the Government might claim justification for suppressing the Daily Express, because it would not refrain from the act from being a tactical mistake and an injury to the national interests. What is needed in Britain is a clearer perception by everyone of the real causes and ultimate consequences of the strike. That can be attained by turning off the light of free publicity and wrangling in the obscurity of ignorance and prejudice.

A Place for Discretion.

The Provincial Government has discovered that shares in oil companies incorporated under Dominion statute are taxable under an old act. That the Government will proceed to collect goes without saying. At the rate companies have been coming into existence, the Province should have a substantial revenue from that source. Provided, the thing is not overdone. The people who are putting money into oil stock are doing so with a view to developing the resources of the province. Taxation must not be imposed to a degree that would discourage this kind of enterprise. It is more important that Alberta's oil resources be brought into use than that the Government should get a few thousand dollars at the expense of frightening capital away from that field of investment.

Applause From Moscow.

The wreckers at Moscow are jubilant over the crisis in Britain. They did not need to waste time and money wiring that information to the world. Their satisfaction would have been taken for granted by anyone who knows how the state to perch in evil eminence on the ruins of a once great empire. Whenever and wherever civilization is in the wreck Trotsky and company can be relied upon to be there. They are the plaudits to the performance. Destruction is their god; the progress of peaceful industry under the protection of ordered government the thing they fear and hate, because it exposes the hypocrisy of their own tyranny. Why wouldn't they applaud when the industry and commerce of Britain—all of nations—are paralyzed, and as they hope on the verge of collapse? These and other reasons Britain are doomed to meet another disappointment. Britain will be Britain still when this strike has ended. This is not the first crisis it has faced and survived, and turned to account in the long run for the strengthening and well-being of the nation. The men who have tied up the industries and trade of Britain are not Communists, nor "Reds" of any other breed. Their leaders are not to say so, and they are not a suggestion to the contrary. They are Britons who are fighting for the right of a wage-earner to support his family in decent comfort—by means of his own strength. They are free to do this because they happen to live under a representative Government, not under the bloody despotism that passes at Moscow. And they have the right to demand that their country as that gang of pirates have wrecked Russia, under the delusion that amid the debris of a national junk heap they might find bliss.

This Week's Festival.

Once in three years the people of Edmonton have an opportunity to attend the Alberta Musical Festival and hear the best singers and players in the province compete in rendering some of the finest music that the genius of the great composers has given to the world. This is their privilege during the coming week. That it will be very largely made use of may be taken for granted. Edmonton has given us a festival very different to the Festival. This is its "old home town," the place where it began, and many of the men and women who were instrumental in organizing it are still resident in the city. Alberta was the first of the provinces to institute an annual event of the kind. Edmonton musicians and music-lovers were mainly responsible for starting the movement, and giving it the leadership, direction and impetus that made it a permanent institution.

This is the nineteenth Alberta Festival. It has all the nineteenth-century annual gathering for there has not been a year when the feast of harmony has not been held. Mention four other provinces have followed Alberta's lead, and British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Ontario now have yearly competitions of the kind. The Alberta Festival has grown faster than its founders could have expected. There are three hundred and twenty entries for the competitions which are to be held this year. Three adjudicators, two of them from England, and one from the United States, will award the prizes. Three auditions are required to accommodate the contestants, and the program extends for full days. These facts speak for themselves. Albertans are a music-loving people. The support they have given to the Festival bespeaks their interest in the well-being of the better side of their life, and their desire to encourage the development of Alberta talent.

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest

When first the game of golf began,
The earliest manufacturer
Of an old which would sell to buy
Is ours. Two hundred yards 'twill fly!

Next year the distance was increased
To sixty yards, and
Two-twenty was the promised flight
In the old boys used to write.

And, with the following winter
We learned that I'd added ten yards more,
And ten yards more with every spring
Till now we had all reckoned.

With thought to do because it rained,
I added up this yardage gained.
And found by running through the files,
A ball should carry seven miles.

I do not doubt these ads at all,
I know they may be, day or night.
Nor do I ask the pit I saw
Respectfully to clear the lot.

The maximum of promised flight,
And found by running through the files,
Seven miles would be too long a drive,
I'd really be content with half.

The other day an honest, hard-working man was told to go and see the good-looking Vermont hills. His life had been simple, rural, sober. He had lived in the same quiet farmhouse for the same of years that his father had. He had his share of the good things of life, but he was not a man of the world. He was a man of the hills.

Sea Beast is Second Best; Paralyzed, Bed-ridden, Writes Operetta

GETTING THE EDGE: HARVARD GRIDIRON STARS hardly wait for winter to go before getting on to the field, under their new coach, Arnold Hoween, at Cambridge, Mass. Their training methods thus differ somewhat from those observed in most Canadian colleges. Here they wait until mid-summer, being bound by an intercollegiate rule.

VIEWING HIS EMPIRE: Benito Mussolini, second Scipio Africanus, visits the Italian possessions in North Africa, where he is shown here looking over the plains of Tripoli from the heights of the city. But he differed from Scipio in this wise: that, whereas the latter stumbled on the threshold, a bad omen, which he corrected by saying, "I hold thee, Africa," Mussolini's nose was already injured before he set out.

RIGHT: WINNERLESS JOCKEY is what Thomas E. McClinchy (on the right), aged 72, claims to be. He says he has never won a race in his 35 years on the turf. He is shown here in characteristic clothes, talking to Major R. McClennan, of the Los Angeles Salvation Army.

HEADS, FREETHINKERS: Henry B. Hoffman, a junior, who has been elected president of the Freethinkers club of Yale university. It numbers 25 members, who unite in the rejection of recognized religious teaching, all claiming to be atheists or agnostics. Hoffman, whose home is at Santa Barbara, Cal., is also secretary of the Yale Literary Club.

BREAKS WHALES BACK: This giant sea beast came off second best in its encounter the other day with the big United States sub V-1, near Portsmouth, N.H. The sub was coming to the surface when it rammed the whale, breaking its back. It was towed out to sea and allowed to sink.

HOME-MADE, BUT UP-TO-DATE: FIRE TRUCK, built by firemen of Wakefield, Mass., which has just been put into commission. With the exception of the motor and chassis, the truck was constructed in their spare time by the men. Its weight, when loaded, is 3 1/2 tons and it has a 1,100-gallon water spread.

FROTH IN "STOCKS": Old-time punishment returns to the campus of the University of Southern California. Photo shows the stocks erected by the sophomores, populated by the freshmen who have transgressed the rules of conduct laid down for them by the upper classmen.

COMPOSES OPERETTA: A HELPLESS INVALID FOR TWO YEARS, Miss Janet Bullock Williams, has written a parody on one of Wagner's operas which was produced last week at the Guild Hall, New York. Miss Williams, who suffers from paralysis, dictated the operetta to a former pupil, Elsie Keizer, who played the notes as they were conceived. Photo also shows Burton Gray, who staged the production.

NO OBSTACLE: WHEN A NEW MOTOR ROAD was constructed in the French Alps between Montmin and the Lake of Annecy, Savoy, owing to the slope of an intervening mountain it had to be cut through this 300-year-old thatched Savoyard farmhouse, which is over 3,000 feet above sea level.

UNITED STATES COAST WATCHDOG: LOOKING INTO THE MUZZLE of a new 12-inch coast defense gun at Fort Hancock, N.Y. The first official tests were recently conducted with success before a group of military leaders and ordnance representatives. Each of the great guns weighs 50 tons and the reverberations of the concussions can be felt for 25 miles.

WITH THEIR EMBLEMS: THE "BONE DRY CLUB," organized in the United States house of representatives for the purpose of combating the bills offered by the "wet" for the modification of the Volstead act. Photo shows (left to right): Representatives W. T. Fitzgerald, of Ohio; R. A. Green, of Florida; B. C. Lowrey, of Miss.; J. M. Tillman, of Arkansas; and W. D. Upshaw, of Georgia.

This prize is an extra prize and all votes and extra votes secured while working for it count towards the regular prizes which will be given away at the close of the contest.

HOW IT WILL BE WON.

This special Ford will be given to the candidate who turns in the greatest amount of money for subscriptions between the dates of Saturday, May first and Saturday, May 22nd, both dates inclusive. This is absolutely the last extra prize to be given away in the contest.

All candidates whether residing in the City or out-of-town districts may work up to the last minute of the extra offer and then mail in their results.

75,000 EXTRA VOTES ENDS SATURDAY AT MIDNIGHT

We wish to call the attention of every candidate to the fact that we are giving 75,000 extra votes on each and every $18.00 worth of subscriptions turned in this week. This absolutely is the best remaining offer in the campaign.
